

TALK

About Schedule on Coal

Resulted In Sensational Developments

THE SENATE CHAMBER STRUNG WITH LIVE WIRES.

TRUE, DECLARED MR. DOLLIVER

That Dingley Placed the Tariff Rate High—Break Made by Taking Duty Off Coal.

Washington, Jan. 14.—In yesterday's session of the Senate the discussion of the coal schedule of the existing Dingley tariff led up to further sensational developments of the Republican attitude toward tariff reform and reciprocity. As Senator Tillman said at the close of the session the Senate Chamber seemed strung with live wires.

The Democratic critical attitude of the last few days, which seemed at first unable to produce a response from their opponents, yesterday achieved more than they had dared to hope, in that two recognized Republican leaders were brought into contradictory statements on the floor of the Senate. After the introduction of some minor bills Senator Dolliver (Iowa) obtained the floor and spoke on lines radically divergent from those of the previous majority speakers. He said that Senator Hale's elaborate denial that Governor Dingley had placed the tariff rates higher even than the protective principle required them to be in order to make more advantageous reciprocity treaties was uncalled for.

"It is true," he declared, "that in the bill, which he had reported from the committee on ways and means he did put duties up for the express purpose of having them traded down." "When such a scheme as that is condemned as an infamy," he said, "against which the memory of Mr. Dingley ought to be defended, he could not feel the restraint of conscience to stand in the Senate and say there was nothing infamous about it. 'It is the scheme,' he continued, 'that is in practice practically in every government in Europe.'"

"If it is necessary for men to rise in the Senate to defend the memory of their country against a charge which has been made, where," he asked, "is the advocate that shall defend the memory of the Congress of 1897?"

The reciprocity provision in the Dingley act he declared as distinctly a part of the tariff policy of the United States as the coal schedule. More violence had been done to the protective system by the solid, quiet, uncommittal failure of the Senate to take action upon the reciprocity treaties than by all the noise that had been made by the Democrats about coal. "I do not intend to sit quietly in this chamber," he declared, "while it is said to be infamous that anybody should have chanced to entertain the notion that a tariff schedule once framed could not be honorably modified by sensible negotiations."

"It remains a reproach to the Congress," he said, "that not one line of the wisdom of James G. Blaine remained on the statute books and not a step had been taken to fulfill the purpose and spirit of the last Buffalo address of President McKinley."

Senator Hale was not present when Senator Dolliver made these remarks, but Senator Aldrich (Rhode Island) immediately took the floor and made an attack upon Senator Dolliver's position. He said that no measure was or would be under consideration by the Republican party which would tend to weaken the great principle of protection to American industries; that such reciprocity treaties as were under consideration would afford countries whose industries under no condition would come into competition with those of the United States.

Mr. Tillman (S. Carolina) gave notice that he would address the Senate on the resolution, "as there seem to be."

She Will be Sent to Join Her Husband at the Asylum—The Holy Band Meetings.

Aberdeen, O., Jan. 14.—Deputy Sheriff Biehn, arrived here this morning and will take Mrs. John Teeters to Georgetown, where she will appear before Judge Campbell and will be committed to the Dayton asylum. Mrs. Teeters was a member of the Holy Band, which ceased operations at Elton this week. As a result of the queer religious teachings of the band she is a mental wreck. Mrs. Teeters appeared upon the streets of Elton yesterday with a revolver and terrorized the citizens threatening to kill several persons. For some days Mrs. Teeters has appeared in front of the grocery store of G. W. Brittingham at Elton and preached and prayed for hours at a time. Brittingham has opposed the work of the band. Her husband, who became insane as a result of the holy band teachings, was committed to the asylum a couple of weeks ago.

LITTLE BOY

KILLED MOTHER AND THEN HE COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Nine Year Old Incurable Shot Mother and Then Turned Weapon on Himself.

Carbondale, Ill., Jan. 14.—Mrs. Frank Tucker and her nine year old son lie dead at West End as the result of the mother's punishment of her refractory son.

The boy was seen by his mother playing with a gun, and she chided him for so doing. The boy resented the mother's words and hot words passed between them.

He continued to play with the gun, and as the mother attempted to take the weapon from him he drew it to his shoulder and shot his mother through the head.

Realizing the terrible act he had committed, he deliberately placed the gun to his head and killed himself. The child had been considered bad by the neighborhood for a long time, being of a morose and ugly disposition.

VICTIM

Of Murder Was Hatfield

According to Butler Grand Jury

INSURANCE POLICY TRANSFERRED TO WELLNER'S WIFE.

HUSBAND NOW UNDER ARREST

On the Charge of Slaying the Descendant of the Famous Feudist in Butler County.

Hamilton, O., Jan. 14.—Two of the supposed indictments found by the grand jury were disclosed late last night when Deputy Sheriff Luke Brannon and Fred Bisdorf arrested at the County Jail Fred Wellner, of near Mintonville, Butler county. Wellner is under indictment for murder in the first degree and for unlawfully obtaining possession of an insurance policy for $2,000 on the life of James Hatfield.

Back of the indictment is the story of the mysterious death of young James Hatfield and the transferring of his insurance policy to Wellner's wife two days before his demise in the office of Attorney Allen Andrews, of this city, the day before last Thanksgiving.

The story is this: On November 18 last young Hatfield had his life insured in Middletown for $2,000. On November 29, it is alleged, Wellner came to this city and had the policy transferred to his wife. Two days later, at 5 o'clock in the evening, young Hatfield's lifeless body was found lying in a woodland road on Wellner's farm. The skull was fractured and three ribs were caved in. Young Hatfield had been hauling wood that day and the supposition was that he had fallen from the top of the load of cord wood and the wheels of the heavy wagon passed over his body. The body was discovered by Wellner, who aroused the neighbors and they took the corpse to an undertaker's establishment in Middletown. Coroner Sharkey was not notified until next day.

It was not until several days after that the story of the transfer of the insurance policy leaked out and the breath of suspicion passed among the country folk, which finally resulted in an investigation.

Young Hatfield is a relative of the famous Hatfields of Kentucky feud fame, and his relatives from Kirby Knob came to this county and aided in the investigation.

Wellner came here from Clermont county, Ohio. He was married in Louisville, Ky., in 1901. The match grew out of Wellner answering a correspondence "ad." Young Hatfield came to work for Wellner last August. Wellner takes his arrest stoically and stoutly asserts his innocence.

STOWAWAY

Wanted Enough to Eat and a Paddle Before Being Sent to Sea on a Raft.

New York, Jan. 14.—The Ellis Island authorities have a global tauton on their hands. One Max Freedman, stowaway, who arrived on the Cunard liner Ivernia yesterday. When that ship was two days out from Queens-town Freedman was found buried to the neck in a huge potato bin. The Captain immediately put him to work peeling potatoes, after first trying the German's nerve.

The stowaway said he had relatives living in Hoboken, and that he had to come here or starve. Germany, he added, was swarming with unemployed. Captain Thomas Stephens, a bluff, good-bearded mariner, pointedly told the stowaway that he would prepare a raft and set him adrift. "Give me enough to eat and a blade to paddle with and I will," said the tauton, who believed the shipper to be serious. The tauton's head of hair and a few white hairs on his face, which had been black, were the only things that were left.

MR. BAYER

Circleville Man is Still Missing, No Trace of Him Whatever Having Been Found.

Circleville, O., Jan. 14.—No word has been received from C. C. Bayer, the missing merchant tailor. His present location is still as much a mystery as ever. From the moment he left Mrs. Sohn, his sister-in-law in Columbus, all trace of him is lost.

Many rumors were current, but all were run down and found to be without foundation. This system of book-keeping was unique, but when traced the figures were found to be all right.

The only condition which the wife-seeker imposes upon the purchaser of his matrimonial tickets is that she must be a respectable, healthy, unmarried Catholic between 40 and 50 years of age.

Eisbrenner is a widower, 55 years of age, 5 feet 4 inches tall, weighs 170 pounds, healthy, well preserved, black hair, blue eyes, speaks English, Polish and German, has one boy 15 years of age and a farm of 80 acres, 25 acres of which are under cultivation. "Give me enough to eat and a blade to paddle with and I will," said the tauton, who believed the shipper to be serious. The tauton's head of hair and a few white hairs on his face, which had been black, were the only things that were left.

TAFT

Declines Offer Of Judgeship

He Will Remain In The Philippines.

EX-SECRETARY DAY WILL GET THE PLACE.

NEEDED IN THE PHILIPPINES.

That is Reason Judge Taft Gives for Declining Honor Which He Has Long Desired.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Pres. Roosevelt today told Senator Foraker that he had the matter of the appointment of Wm. H. Day to be Supreme bench under consideration.

Washington, Jan. 14.—While nothing official has been given out, yet the impression is general that Judge Day of Canton, Ohio, will succeed Justice Shiras on the Supreme bench.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—Hon. William H. Taft, Governor of the Philippines, has declined the tender of the President of the position on the Supreme Court of the United States, which is to be vacated soon by Associate Justice George Shiras. The place has been offered to Judge William R. Day of Canton, and it is understood he will accept it. Thus, Ohio is to be represented again on the most august tribunal in the land, after a lapse of nearly 11 years. The fact that Governor Taft has declined the proffer of an Associate Justiceship is known only to the President and a few of his official intimates, and the news of the tender to Judge Day is confined within that small circle.

The motive which actuated Governor Taft in resolving not to accept an appointment which adds a crowning glory to a legal or judicial career, intensifies the high esteem in which he is held by the President, and emphasizes his lofty sense of public duty. For many years it has been Judge Taft's ambition to serve as a member of the United States Supreme Court, and he even now looks forward to its realization. But because he believes he is needed in the Philippines for a while, he has allowed to pass his first opportunity to wear the judicial ermine which has graced but 60 men since the foundation of the Federal Government. In advising the President of his decision to decline the appointment, Governor Taft said: "My work in the Philippines is not yet done. Until it is finished duty impels me to remain here."

When Judge Taft was asked by the late President McKinley nearly three years ago to become the executive head of the Government of the Philippines, he was a United States Circuit Judge in the Sixth Circuit. His work on the bench was very agreeable to him, but he was prevailed upon by Mr. McKinley to leave it for the arduous task of administering the civil affairs of the Pacific archipelago.

JUDGE DAY WILL ACCEPT.

Canton, O., Jan. 14.—Judge Day is in Cincinnati. It is well understood among Judge Day's intimate friends in Canton that he will accept the appointment to the U. S. Supreme Court bench. It has also been understood here that it was the intention of President McKinley to give Judge Day a supreme justiceship at the earliest opportunity.

SUFFERERS

From Coal Famine Almost Demolished Vacant House When the Police Interfered.

New York, Jan. 14.—Persons in the neighborhood of Port Morris, who were without coal yesterday, almost demolished a vacant house on East 139th street, near Brook avenue. The interior was wrecked and the fuel gotters were beginning to pull the clapboards from the outside when the police interfered. Six little boys, who could not run fast enough to get away spent last night in the rooms of the children's society and will be arraigned in the children's court today as "suspicious persons."

MASON QUILTS

FINDING HE CAN NOT WIN IN ILLINOIS.

Senator's Successor Will be Congressman Hopkins—Mr. Mason Talks of the Situation.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 14.—Senator William F. Mason, who has been a candidate for re-election to the United States Senate by the Illinois legislature, has quit the race. He says:

"I find there is no chance for my election and desire to thank my friends for their kindness and to say to them that I do not desire them to vote for me. As to the methods used, most of the publicans of the state are familiar, and I have nothing further to say on that subject at present."

After making this statement, Senator Mason left for Chicago. The senator's withdrawal came after a hard day's work on his part and that of his friends who came to assist him.

It finally became apparent to the senator, as it has been to almost everybody around the capital for the last week, that Congressman Hopkins, United States senator from Illinois, was the man to succeed him.

TOOK COAL

CROWD WAS HEADED BY MAYOR AND LEADING MEN.

Believe People Seized Eight Car Loads of Anthracite—The Poor Begged for Fuel.

Baltimore, Jan. 14.—The fact that a crowd of about 500 people, many of whom were without coal, gathered in front of the city hall yesterday, and a conference of the mayor, city council and coal dealers was held.

It was learned that there were eight cars of anthracite coal in the local yards of the Baltimore and Lake Erie railroad and it was decided to confiscate the coal.

The fire bell was rung and the mayor and council followed by a small crowd of men, with shovels, marched to the railway yards and unloaded the coal in a record-breaking time. The mayor issued orders with the police to the citizens through the local dealers to get the coal at the rate of $4 a ton. A further search was made and several cars of coal were found and unloaded in a matter of hours. A heavy wagon in town was loaded with coal and the work of delivering the coal was kept up until midnight. The raid there were many poor men and women waiting for the coal.

ESTATE

To Be Contested For In Court

TWO WILLS FILED SAME DAY AT TIFFIN.

LEAVES HER DOGS AND BIRDS

To New York Society in One Document, to a Preacher in Another. Sanity is Questioned.

Tiffin, Ohio, Jan. 14.—Two instruments, each purporting to be the last will and testament of Mrs. Charlotte M. Hoyt, the wealthy and eccentric woman who died at her home in this city last week, has been filed in the office of the Probate Judge of this county.

The first is a voluminous document, consisting of 20 typewritten pages, and was drawn up and signed in New York City in December, 1900. The bulk of her large fortune which is estimated at between $100,000 and $200,000 is given to her husband, Reuben M. Hoyt, the wealthy soap manufacturer of New York City, with certain reservations. There is also a bequest in trust of $25,000 to her father and stepmother, Casper Guss and wife, of this city. This upon their death is to go to her half-brother and to her nieces and nephews.

A large bequest is also made to her sister, who resides in Michigan. To the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, of New York City, she bequeaths her household pets, consisting of dogs, cats and canary birds. A codicil made several months later somewhat decreases the bequest to her husband and makes a former female companion in New York a legatee. This will is witnessed by Augustus Houghton, J. M. Stoddard and A. S. Worklin, presumably all of New York. Joseph T. Brown of the same city, and the Knickerbocker Trust Company of New York, are named as executors.

The second instrument, which was also filed, was executed and signed in this city last May and is very brief.

After the usual preliminaries, in which she revokes all previous wills and codicils, she bequeaths to Rev. Arthur Rutledge, a minister in New York City, an income of $5 per week to compensate him for caring for whatever household pets she may be possessed of at the time of her death. The next item bequeaths all of her property both real and personal, to her half brother, Rufus Guss, a fireman residing in this city. In this instrument the Knickerbocker Trust company alone is named as executor. The fact that both wills were filed on the same day by relatives of the dead woman in this city, and while her attorney is yet in New York, makes it almost certain that a bitter legal contest will follow. Furthermore, it is generally rumored among her attorneys of Tiffin that still later wills were executed by the deceased.

The main grounds for contesting wills is to the sanity of the testatrix. Her many eccentricities and sensational escapades since she took up her residence in Tiffin, together with her many other peculiar habits, have led many to question the woman's sanity.

Telephone Prices.

Findlay, O., Jan. 14.—The Findlay Telephone company won the suit brought by the city and carried to the circuit court to compel that company to reduce its telephone rates from $18 to $12 a year. The cheaper service was, according to a now expired contract with the city. The court held that a municipality could not fix the price of telephone charges any more than the price of groceries.

The Hero of the South—O. I. Dust-himer.

Webster—O. C. Montgomery.

The Work of Hamilton—Walter L. Flory.

Charles Sumner—H. B. Gengnagel.

The Leading Spirit of the French Revolution—J. S. West.

Abraham Lincoln—Vernice V. Hunter.

William Pitt—J. H. Lloyd.

Decision of Judges.

The different speakers evinced great ability in independent thinking and polished expression, and the delivery was equal to the standard of thought and composition.

One of the judges who has frequently been to Granville on a similar mission stated to the Advocate that it was the most spirited contest held in recent years, and the hardest to decide, so excellent were the orations, and so evenly divided were the orators.

Miss Lulu M. Shinn's oration "A Loyal Leader of a Lost Cause," is deserving of special mention. So also, the oration of Walter L. Flory, who, although he did not win the prize, got the highest grade on thought and composition from each of the judges.

The first place was clearly between J. H. Lloyd's "William Pitt," W. L. Flory's "The Work of Hamilton," and J. S. West's, "Leading Spirit of the French Revolution."

The judges were unanimous on first place, but the average gave Lloyd first, West second and Flory third. The whole contest reflected great credit on Denison, not only as an institution for higher education, but as a practical school for preparation for professional life. The winner will represent Denison at the State contest.

AMUSEMENTS.

FAUST FRIDAY NIGHT.

On Friday night of this week, January 16th, Faust will be the bill at the Auditorium. Faust is no stranger in Newark and it never fails to draw a large audience. The Alpena News says:

That a first-class attraction properly advertised will draw a large audience was demonstrated Friday evening at Maltz Opera House, when Porter J. White presented Miss Olga Verne, surrounded by a company of actors of marked capability, gave a most enjoyable representation of Faust to an audience that filled every available seat in the house.

The play was beautifully and elaborately staged so far as scenery and electrical effects were concerned, and was also well costumed, but the real merit of the actors was what the audience most appreciated. The Marguerite of Miss Olga Verne was sweet, beautiful and strong, and the scenes between her and Faust were charming in every detail. The delineation of Faust was excellent throughout. The other parts were all well taken.

That all these good points were appreciated by the audience was plainly shown in the patience and good nature, with which they sat through the long waits between some of the acts. These were caused from the fact that the scenery was new and the difficulty will not occur again this evening.

The freshness and beauty of scenery and costumes largely repaid for all delay however, and whenever Miss Verne visits Alpena again we can safely promise her a good audience.

A COOL FISHERMAN.

The Story of How He Landed a Great Big Beauty.

Row slowly now. A little nearer to the shore. There, that's right. Steady, now. This eddy looks like a good place. The left oar; just a little. There, that's fine. Just by these lily pads a large one was caught the other day. Gee whizz! Did you see that? A strike, and he was a beauty, too—an eight pounder, I'll bet. Back water, quick, till I try him again! Steady, now. This is the place. I guess we've missed him. No, by Jove, there he was again! He's got it; he's got it! Turn her out into deep water. He's in the lily pads now and a goner sure! Thunderation, and he was a monster! Must have weighed at least ten pounds. No; there he is! He is still hooked; he is all right; he is free from the lilies; he is free! Steady, now. Put the oars in the boat. See the pole. He bends it nearly double. And doesn't he make the reel sing! Now he has turned. He is coming toward us! Hand me that landing net! Quick, quick! He is going under the boat! He will snap the line! Holy smoke, there he goes! Grab the line—grab the line. I say! Have you got it? Keep him fast, now. Just a second. Steady, now. There he goes into the net. Here he is in the boat. We have him. He is safe. And isn't he a beauty? Isn't he a beauty, a dandy, a crackjack, a peach? He will go above six pounds, if he weighs an ounce. Wasn't he lively? Did you see him make that three foot leap out of the water? You didn't? Man, where were your eyes? Row in now, and we will weigh him. How much did you say? Four pounds and two ounces! Pshaw! That can't be right. Your scales are not accurate. Well, he's a beauty anyway. It took a full half hour to tire him out and land him. Three minutes, you say! Oh, you're mistaken! That can't possibly be. It was surely longer than that! He was a fighter to the last. Excited when I caught him! Naw; not a bit! Cool as a cucumber—just as I am now. He certainly is a beauty.—Forest and Stream.

THE OLD WOOD FIRE.

Putting the Big Backlog in Place Was Quite a Job.

After the evening chores were done my father would appear in the doorway with the big backlog coated with snow, often of ampler girth than himself and fully breast high to him as he held it upright, cutting it one way and another and walking it before him on its wedge shaped end. He would perhaps stand it against the chimney while he took a breathing spell and planned his campaign. Then, the andirons hauled forward on the hearth and the bed of half burned brands and live coals raked open, the icy log was walked into the chimney, where a skillful turn would lay it over, hissing and steaming, in its lair of hot embers. It seemed a thing alive, and its vehement sputtering and protesting made a dramatic moment for at least one small spectator.

The stout shovel and tongs or perhaps a piece of firewood used as a lever would force it against the chimney back; then a good sized stick, called a "back stick," was laid on top of it, and the andirons were set in place. Across the andirons another good sized stick was laid, called a "fore stick," and in the interspace smaller sticks were crossed and thrust and piled, all quickly kindled by the live coals and brands. In very cold weather a fire was kept burning all night, our father getting up once or twice to replenish it. Even in summer the coals rarely became extinct. A good heap of them covered with embers at bedtime would be found alive when raked open in the morning. —J. T. Trowbridge in Atlantic.

Cromwell.

On the morning of the 1st of May, 1637, there occurred an incident that, unnoticed at the time, afterward proved to be one of the turning points of history. Eight immigrant ships lay in the Thames ready to sail. A body of pilgrims were about to embark, and Oliver Cromwell and his famous cousin, John Hampden, were among them. But they were stopped at the landing by a guard of soldiers. The king had decreed that his subjects should not leave England. Cromwell stayed, and with him, as Macaulay wrote, "stayed the evil genius of the house of Stuart." Had Cromwell and his friends been allowed to carry out their project of emigration the whole history of the English civil war might have remained unwritten.

A MIST QUOTATION.

An attaché of a religious bookstore has spent so many years of his life among theological volumes that he is Scriptural or nothing, but he sometimes evolves a misfit. When his attention was called the other day to a rose neatly attached to the lapel of his coat and an insinuation thrown out that a lady friend might have had something to do with it, he paralyzed the insinuator by saying, "No, sir; I gathered that rose from my own vine and fig tree."

A Slander.

The Benedict—They are probably intended for married men.

The Bachelor—Does that make a difference?

The Benedict—Yes. When a man is married, his wife generally "keeps him in hot water."—Philadelphia Record.

LOOK OUT FOR CATARRH

When the cold wave flag is up, freezing weather is on the way. Winter is here in earnest, and with it all the miserable symptoms of Catarrh return—blinding headaches and neuralgia, thick mucous discharges from the nose and throat, a hacking cough and pain in the chest, bad taste in the mouth, fetid breath, nausea and all that makes Catarrh the most sickening and disgusting of all complaints. It causes a feeling of personal defilement and mortification that keeps one nervous and anxious while in the company of others.

In spite of all efforts to prevent it, the filthy secretions and mucous matter find their way into the Stomach and are distributed by the blood to every nook and corner of the system; the Stomach and Kidneys, in fact every organ and part of the body, become infected with the catarrhal poison. This disease is rarely, if ever, even in its earliest stages, a purely local disease or simple inflammation of the nose and throat, and this is why sprays, washes, powders and the various inhaling mixtures fail to cure. Heredity is sometimes back of it—parents have it and so do their children.

In the treatment of Catarrh, anti-septic and soothing washes are good for cleansing purposes or clearing the head and throat, but this is the extent of their usefulness. To cure Catarrh permanently, the blood must be purified and the system relieved of its load of foul secretions, and the remedy to accomplish this is S. S. S. which has no equal as a blood purifier. It restores the blood to a natural, healthy state and the catarrhal poison and effete matter are carried out of the system through the proper channels. S. S. S. restores to the blood all its good qualities, and when rich, pure blood reaches the inflamed membrane and is carried through the circulation to all the Catarrh infected portions of the body, they soon heal, the mucous discharges cease and the patient is relieved of the most offensive and humiliating of all complaints.

S. S. S. is a vegetable remedy and contains nothing that could injure the most delicate constitution. It cures Catarrh in its most aggravated forms, and cases apparently incurable and hopeless. Write us if you have Catarrh, and our physicians will advise you without charge.

THE COURTS.

The case of Philander Graves, guardian of Ora A. Graves, vs. Eva Graves was called for trial to the Court on Tuesday afternoon. The parties are from Hartford. The petition charges the defendant with taking advantage of the ward, Ora A. Graves in his condition; alleging that he was insane, and that she induced him to marry her; alleges that Ora A. Graves had been in the asylum for eight or ten years before the marriage, but had been permitted to go home on several occasions as an improved or partially cured patient.

The answer of Mrs. Graves denies that her husband was insane at the time of her marriage and denied that she induced him, by fraudulent or other means, to marry her.

Upon the case coming on for trial, the defendant by Counsel, stated that she was not disposed to oppose the granting of the decree, pro confesso, but did contend that she had in no way influenced him, and that she had no knowledge whatever at the time of the marriage that he had ever been in the asylum, or adjudged insane, and was willing to permit a decree if these facts could be found in her favor.

The plaintiff accepted the terms, and the Court rendered a decree, pro confesso, annulling the marriage. This was not an action for divorce but simply to annul the marriage.

Kicked Over the Lantern, But the Heroic Boy Saved the Life of His Mother.

Lancaster, O., Jan. 14—Mrs. Addie Applegate narrowly escaped a terrible death last evening. She was milking a cow in the stable and a lighted lantern was standing on the floor. He realized his mother's peril and tried to smother the flames.

After some minutes the little fellow, with the assistance of his mother, succeeded in extinguishing the fire, but not until his hands had been severely burned. The mother was also badly burned about the head, face and arms and nearly all her clothing was destroyed. The woman's condition is serious.

HISSEY

Again Defeated in His Fight for Control of Zanesville Bank—May Appeal to Courts.

Zanesville, O., January 14—The fight for the control of the Commercial Bank reached a climax yesterday, when the stockholders held their annual meeting. The faction led by Dr. M. W. Hissey, who is Senator Hanna's confidential friend, elected seven Directors by a clear majority of all votes cast, but at the finish the judges, who were selected by the anti-Hissey forces, who have been in control for a year, also declared eight other Directors, who received only 157 votes elected, which will give the bank 15 Directors, and the anti-Hissey forces a majority of one in the Directory.

The Hissey Directors are Dr. Hissey himself, A. J. Sheppard, who is one of the managers of the Ohio penitentiary; Newton and Ira Sturtz, Harry Bethel, of the Government Engineer's office; C. M. Ludman and H. L. Greiner. The Hissey people claim the eight anti-Hissey were not elected and add that if they attempt to take part in the organization of the new Board of Directors an appeal will be made to the Courts.

At the election a year ago the anti-Hissey faction succeeded in eliminating Hissey and Sheppard from the Board and they are now seeking to regain control and at the same time get rid of certain Directors who led the fight against them.

FAMOUS

INDIAN SCOUT WAS IN NEWARK WEDNESDAY.

Capt. Allison, Who Negotiated Surrender of Sitting Bull Talks to an Advocate Reporter.

One of the most famous Indian fighters and scouts of the '70's, the man who negotiated the surrender of Sitting Bull and the Sioux nation, and the man who knows more about the battle of the Little Big Horn, than any man living, is in Newark, a guest at the Manhattan Hotel, on East Church street.

This man is Captain E. H. Allison, and he is now visiting the various towns of Ohio, hunting up old comrades, who fought in the civil war with him as members of the famous 10th Ohio cavalry. An Advocate reporter was the medium through which James Wycuff and Captain Allison were brought together, and Wycuff is the only survivor of this regiment living in Newark. George W. Williams, who died several years ago, was also a member.

Captain Allison is a picturesque figure, of powerful physique, his long hair brushed back from his expansive forehead, and falling in a mass about his shoulders. His keen, gray eye has in it a kindly gleam and makes one feel at home immediately upon meeting the old scout.

Captain Allison was born in the Michigan backwoods, 55 years ago, and when 15 years of age ran away and enlisted in the 70th Ohio cavalry at Toledo. He served throughout the civil war, and at its close re-enlisted in the United States army being assigned to the 22nd U. S. Infantry. This regiment was in command of Lieut. Col. Elwel S. Otis, who was commander of the post. Col. Otis afterward became Major General of Volunteers, and recently commanded the army in the Philippines.

Young Allison was one who volunteered to carry the mail and military dispatches from Fort Rice to Fort Abercrombie, and he was detailed for this duty, which he performed throughout the three years of his enlistment.

His route covered 250 miles of trackless wilderness, infested with hostile tribes of Indians in what is now North Dakota.

During this service he learned the language of the Indians, and after this service he served the government as scout and guide and interpreter almost to the present time.

In 1868 he was formally adopted by the Sioux, and this adoption becoming a part of the treaty, ratified by Congress, by which the Indians released all their rights to 40,000,000 acres of land east of the Missouri, Captain Allison is today legally an Indian with all the rights and privileges of one.

He was twice married, his first wife being a daughter of Medicine Bear, a famous Sioux chieftain, by whom he had one daughter, who is now the wife of Mr. Schanandore, disciplinarian of the Sherman Institute at Riverside, California, where she is also a teacher. She was educated at Northfield, Mass.

His second wife was a white woman who is also dead, had a daughter by this marriage is the happy wife of a ranchman in South Dakota.

Captain Allison was the first scout to report to General Custer in 1873, and conducted this famous Indian fighter from the frontier 500 miles to Fort Rice.

Captain Allison was taken over the ground where the battle of the Little Big Horn was fought by Indians who took part in the massacre of General Custer, and told all about the famous fight. Had he been there the battle could never have resulted as it did, as Captain Allison's distrust of Major Reno, in command of the attacking column, would have called forth a vigorous protest, and resulted in another officer commanding this important strategic move, Reno was characterized as a coward by Captain Allison. His knowledge of the battle has enabled him to prepare an interesting lecture on the subject "Custer's Last Battle" with an interesting description of the character, customs and religious ideas of the primitive Indian which may be delivered in Newark.

"I am pleased to give my experience with Wine of Cardui for its help. After my first baby was born I could not seem to regain my strength, although the doctor gave me a tonic which he considered very superior, but instead of getting better I grew weaker every day. My husband came home one evening with some Wine of Cardui and insisted that I take it for a week and see what it would do for me. As he seemed to have so much faith in it I did take the medicine and was very grateful to find my strength slowly returning. In two weeks I was out of bed and in a month I was able to take up my usual duties. I am very enthusiastic in its praise."

Wine of Cardui, in re-inforcing the organs of generation, has made mothers of women who had given up hope of ever becoming mothers. Wine of Cardui will cure almost any case of barrenness except cases of organic trouble. How can you refuse to take such a remedy that promises such relief from suffering? Wine of Cardui simply makes you a strong woman, and strong, healthy women do not suffer. They look forward to motherhood with joy.

MOTHERHOOD is the noblest duty and highest privilege women can achieve or aspire to. Without this privilege women do not get all there is in life—too often they go through the world discontented, wrapped up in their own selfish cares and troubles. How different is the happy mother, watching her children grow into manhood and womanhood. A mother lives as many lives as she has children—their joys and sorrows are hers, as are their ambitions, triumphs and defeats. Healthy women do not suffer miscarriage nor does a woman who is healthy suffer tortures at childbirth. It is the woman who is ailing—who has female weakness—who fears the ordeal of becoming a mother. Wine of Cardui builds up the womanly in a woman. It stops all unnatural drains and strains—irregularities which are responsible for barrenness and miscarriage. It makes a woman strong and healthy and able to pass through pregnancy and childbirth with little suffering. After the ordeal is passed the Wine prepares a woman for a speedy recovery to health and activity.

Wine of Cardui, in re-inforcing the organs of generation, has made mothers of women who had given up hope of ever becoming mothers. Wine of Cardui will cure almost any case of barrenness except cases of organic trouble. How can you refuse to take such a remedy that promises such relief from suffering? GOVERNOR

Of New Jersey in His Message to the Legislature Defends the Trusts.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 14.—Gov. Murphy has caused a sensation in his message to the legislature by a remarkable defense of trusts and the state's relation to the question. The governor said he doubted if there were any such things as actual trusts. There are giant combinations, he said, but combinations do not necessarily mean monopoly. He recommended that all persons who should hereafter seek to enjoin the corporations from carrying out plans be required to deposit a bond so that if the attacking party is not entitled to the remedy desired, the corporations can recover. Regarding the protection of trusts, he said:

"The New Jersey law recognizes the right of property to protection. It recognizes as well the right of the people to equal protection. It allows no oppression of the people by the corporation. It allows no unjust assault upon the corporation by the people to be effective. It carefully and justly guards the interest of both."

LOT SALE

Only One More Day Remains To Finish It

Energetic Work Will Result In Victory

The Committees Are Doing Some Hustling Today

Sale of About 40 More Lots Which Are Worth the Price Will Mean Much to Newark and to Every Person in City--Help Sell the Lots.

The Board of Trade committees ended work last night with the sale of the 15th lot, leaving 40 to be disposed of today and tomorrow.

Two good committees went to work this morning determined to do all in their power to sell the remaining lots before tomorrow night, but up to one o'clock this afternoon the committees had not reported the progress made to the president of the Board of Trade.

In starting out this morning the committee was furnished the names of about 100 men who have not yet subscribed for a lot, all being men who are not only able to do so, but men to whom the location of the two factories would be of great benefit.

The time for the completion of the lot sale is not only a few hours away, but unfortunately about forty lots are yet to be disposed of. By night the number may be reduced, but it is safe to say that at least 30 lots must be sold tomorrow to assure the success of the enterprise.

For the final day's work all men who are willing to give a few hours to the sale of lots are requested to call at President Black's office on West Main street tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock. Those who have not yet subscribed for a lot and are willing to do so to help land these two plants are asked to notify Mr. Black by telephone or otherwise at once.

There is now but one more day for the work and it will take the greatest effort to complete it. Let everybody who can lend a hand.

Let all help in the sale of the 200 lots. It means much to Newark, it means a great deal to every citizen of the town. Newark will grow and prosper as she has never done before, if the Board of Trade succeeds in this effort.

Remember that the new plants will cost about $250,000, will employ 850 men, add 4,000 people to the city's population within a year, necessitate the construction of at least 400 houses, will make more business for the city, and more work for everybody.

Somebody will get the Forry house for nothing and every lot buyer has a chance to get it, equal to that of every other lot subscriber. This property is worth between $3,000 and $4,000.

The lots which are selling for $200, $250 and $300 are worth all that is asked. They are near the center of the city and the $5,000 to be spent in grading will put them in fine condition for building. Buy a lot or two. You get your money's worth and at the same time you do your part towards booming Newark.

The matter must be closed tomorrow. The sale must end tomorrow night. Mr. Wehrle will have to say Friday morning whether he can take care of the new business that is offered him and upon the lot sale his answer depends.

If the sale is finished Newark will within six months have the largest stove foundry in the world.

The Board of Trade is determined to dispose of the remaining lots if possible believing as it does that this opportunity for further development of this thriving city should not be allowed to pass. Help the Board. Help the city. Help yourself by buying a lot.

The committees for Thursday's soliciting are as follows:

J. S. Dudley, W. H. Smith, George B. Sprague, E. C. Wright, C. H. Spencer, H. J. Hoover, J. C. Jones, Wm. E. Miller, T. W. Brandt, Julius Kramer, J. C. Brennan, B. Franklin, I. N. Wilson, W. H. Mazey, C. C. Rankin, Frank Hall, Frank P. Kennedy, W. W. Neal, W. D. Fulton, L. Hirschberg, Walter Scott, Dan L. Jones, Henry Beckman, T. M. Edmiston, W. G. Taffel, A. C. Dickinson, J. M. In the House.

Washington, Jan. 14.—The House today by a vote of 144 to 113 adopted a rule providing for the immediate consideration of the bill from the ways and means committee granting a rebate on coal for a period of one year. The debate was limited to one hour and no amendment to the bill will be allowed under the rule.

ONLY A SUGGESTION

But It Has Proven of Interest and Value to Thousands.

Common sense would suggest that if one wishes to become fleshy and plump it can only result from the food we eat and digest and that food should be albuminous or flesh-forming food, like eggs, beefsteak and cereals; in other words the kinds of food that make flesh are the foods which form the greater part of our daily bill of fare.

But the trouble is that while we eat enough and generally too much, the stomach, from abuse and overwork does not properly digest and assimilate it, which is the reason so many people remain thin and under weight; the digestive organs do not completely digest the flesh forming beefsteak and eggs and similar wholesome food. There are thousands of such, who are really confirmed dyspeptics, although they may have no particular pain or inconvenience from their stomachs.

If such persons would lay their prejudices aside and make a regular practice of taking, after each meal, one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets the food would be quickly and thoroughly digested, because these tablets contain the natural pepsines and diastase which every weak stomach is soon enabled to regain its natural tone and vigor.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digest every form of flesh-forming food, meat, eggs, bread and potatoes, and this is the reason they so quickly build up strength and invigorate thin, dyspeptic men, women and children.

Invalids and children, even the most delicate, use them with marked benefit as they contain no strong, irritating drugs, no cathartics nor any harmful ingredient.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet is the most successful and most widely known of any remedy for stomach troubles because it is the most reasonable and scientific of modern medicines.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by every druggist in the United States, and Canada as well as in Great Britain, at 50 cents for complete treatment.

Nothing further is required to cure any stomach trouble or to make thin, nervous, dyspeptic people, strong, plump and well.

ATTEMPT

To Destroy Fine Organ That Was Given to the New Castle Church by Carnegie.

New Castle, Pa., Jan. 14.—An attempt to destroy the handsome new pipe organ presented Christmas by Andrew Carnegie to the Central Presbyterian church has been discovered by Miss Gale Moore, daughter of Rev. Dr. S. H. Moore, the pastor. Miss Moore is the organist and when she went to practice last night it gave no sound. Her father was called and an expert secured who found that wooden plugs had been driven into some of the pipes, though not seriously injuring the organ. Carnegie's library offered to the town was refused by the Council under the influence of the labor unions.

Appointment of Negroes.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 14.—The morning Herald publishes an editorial from the pen of Cal. W. C. P. Breckenridge, in which he vigorously denounces the action of President Roosevelt in appointing negroes to office as being a dangerous lesson to the negro race. He specializes the Boston district attorneyship and the Indiana postoffice affair, saying the incumbents were appointed simply because they were negroes, in defiance of public opinion and characterizes the President's action as a desperate bid for the support of the negro vote in the next Republican convention.

CUBA'S DEVELOPMENTS

A Havana Lawyer Talks of New Conditions.

HEALTHIER GROWTH NOTICEABLE

Americans Now In the Island Engaged In Business and Are Coming
In to Take Up Lands For Farming
Purposes—The Government Considered a Success.

Ernest Lee Conant, of a law firm in Havana, when interviewed by a representative of the Washington Star at the New Willard hotel said: "There was somewhat of a reaction after the American military authorities left Cuba, and American influences were not as prominent in business as under military rule. There is a healthier growth now, and many Americans are coming in to take lands and engage in farming on their own responsibility. These people do not come at the suggestion of any land company and as a rule know why they come and what line of farming they intend to engage in. There are between 1,000 and 2,000 Americans in Havana engaged in business, and there is an American paper there published entirely in English. An American brewery supplies the needs of those who use beer, and the Havana electric street railway is an American institution. This railway now operates forty-five miles of road, with lines to Viñales, Quenados, Cero, Jesus del Monte, Mariano and other suburbs. The line is being extended to Mariel, twenty-five miles out.

"Viñales, the beautiful suburban city by the sea, has almost doubled in size, the new houses being largely American. This was always a favorite resort with Americans, and the headquarters of the military government was at the La Trocha hotel at Viñales. There is a Colonial Loan and Deposit company controlled by Americans in Havana, and American companies are preparing to raise cotton on a large scale for the English market.

"The American club in Havana is quite an organization. It is presided over by Mr. Merchant. A syndicate has completed its line of railroad from Havana to Santiago, and a few weeks ago trains began running. The distance is about 600 miles, and it takes two days to make the trip one way. The reason of this is that the trains tie up over night and the passengers go to a hotel. Speed is not particularly desirable, and as everybody is anxious to see the country, and the railroad company is anxious to have the country along its line seen, all parties seem satisfied with the arrangement. I suppose later at least one through fast train will be put on.

"I think the Cuban government has been a success. Notwithstanding the increase in expenses by reason of a congress and a state department with several costly foreign missions the Cuban government has materially reduced operating expenses. Revenues have not declined and there is a surplus in the treasury. The expenditures for schools have been reduced without crippling that branch of the public service. The recent strike on the street railway was somewhat exaggerated in the United States. The authorities suppressed the rioting in two or three days, and too much credit cannot be given to President Palma and Chief of Police Cardenas for their firmness, steadiness and good judgment. The incident has been in reality of great benefit. It increased the confidence of the people in their president, placed the chief of police firmly in authority over his men, united the police, increased their confidence and esprit de corps and in every way strengthened the government. I think generally that there has been less disorder, less cattle stealing, than under American military rule. The people are more contented, and that may account for it.

"There is of course business stagnation at present and will be until the treaty with the United States becomes law. There is no question as to its meeting the approval of the Cuban government. The people there have great admiration for President Roosevelt and look upon him as their friend. Generally they are suspicious of the people of the United States as a whole and think that this country intends to gobble them up at the first opportunity. There is an entire lack of cordiality toward Americans as a people. If I had any suggestion to make to the government there, I would perhaps advise less attention to the military department and more to agriculture. Up to this time a great deal of energy has been devoted to the organization of the army. Perhaps this was necessary in a country recently engaged in war, but the future of Cuba depends upon the development of its agricultural resources, and this feature should receive early and earnest attention."

The Vanishing Red Man.

A discussion of the Indians of Oklahoma and Indian Territory brought on by the consideration of the omnibus statehood bill provoked some sharp passages in the senate recently, says the Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune. The declaration made by Senator Beveridge that a considerable proportion of the members of various Indian tribes were really white called forth a rebuke from Senator Tillman, who demanded to know the reason for this. Senators Quay, Spooner and Beveridge united in the explanation that the white men had married Indian women and were Indians only by marriage. "Well," roared back Senator Tillman, "then if the white men married the Indian women, what became of the Indians that would have married the Indian women?"

DISCIPLE OF LORENZ.

Straightened Woman's Bowlegs and Saved Her a Husband.

"For more than thirty years I have treated cases of congenital dislocation of the hip by the bloodless surgery method somewhat after the style Dr. Lorenz has adopted," said Professor Henry Hermann of Fort Erie, according to a Buffalo special to the New York World.

"In 1873 a little girl was brought to me afflicted with a dislocation of this sort. I examined the case very carefully and succeeded in working the hip into its socket by the mere use of my hands. The child recovered the use of the limb, and when it grew up to young womanhood not a single defect was noticeable.

"Several times a year after that I treated similar cases and have always met with the greatest success. I have likewise met with success in the treatment of clubfoot, curvature of the spine, knock knees and bowlegs—in fact, it is only a few months ago that by the mere use of my hands I cured a bad case of bowlegs in a woman twenty-three years of age.

"The young woman came to my place one day about six months ago and said that she was about to be married, but that her intended husband did not know that she was bowlegged. 'If he did,' said she, 'I do not believe he would marry me.'

"I made an examination and found one of the worst bowlegged cases I had ever seen, but in four months' time I had straightened the young woman's limbs so that about a month ago she was married. She declares that I saved her a husband, and at Christmas time she sent this pretty watch chain for a present." and the Lorenz of Fort Erie proudly exhibited a handsome watch chain which now adorns his waistcoat.

THE BICYCLE FOR 1903.

Chainless Coaster Brake With Changeable Gear The New Model.

Wheelmen generally will be glad to know that the new models in bicycles for this year show a decided all around improvement, says the New York Tribune. This wheel is not only a chainless coaster brake, but it possesses still another advantage in that it has a changeable gear, something long sought for by riders and manufacturers on both sides of the Atlantic.

The new models are arranged in three styles, the low gear being 68 in each instance, and the high gears being 83, 91 or 101. The new mechanism is contained in the rear hub and is said to be simple and not likely to get out of order. When the rider, using, say, a 101 gear on the level or in going down hill, comes to an incline and wishes to reduce his gear to 68, all he has to do is to give a slight pressure on the pedal and the gear is reduced. When the coaster brake is wanted the pressure on the pedal is made more pronounced.

While it is admitted that high gears are much in favor, the fact that wheels so geared were hard to ride against the high wind or up a hill caused lower gears to prevail the last two years. With two gears the chances are that many riders will accept the 91 and 101 gears for regular road use. The new principle cannot be attached to the old bicycles, even the chainless coaster brake of last year. The new models will be made in both diamond and drop frame styles. The cost of the new wheel will be $85.

TO RECORD INDIAN SPEECH.

Yale Men, With Special Car, Will Tour the West and South.

The department of experimental psychology at Yale soon will begin the study of the dialects of the United States, the funds for the experiment having been granted by the Carnegie Institute at Washington, as announced some time ago, says a New Haven special to the New York Times. To carry out this experiment, which is to be known as the Yale phonetic survey, a special railroad car will be chartered and sent out to various places in the western part of the United States in charge of Yale men to collect gramophone records of the rapidly disappearing Indian dialects.

Southern and western modes of speech will also be studied and records taken, but the main object of the trip will be to collect Indian speech. The car will start some time in the spring and will carry on its work during the coming summer.

New Sugar Making Process.

Thomas Wommack, a prominent planter of East Baton Rouge parish, in New Orleans, has discovered a process for making sugar which promises to revolutionize the industry in Louisiana, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Mr. Wommack declines to divulge his secret until he has secured a patent, but he says the process converts the whole product from the ordinary sirup into first sugars, with only a small percentage of the residue in the shape of a black kind of glucose, with scarcely a trace of sucrose in it and as hard as a brick. He brought samples of this residue product to the Sugar Exchange for chemical examination. As an evidence of the success of his discovery every pound of sugar made by him this season is clear white firsts.

Tillman Jars the Senate.

During the oral debate in the senate recently Senator Tillman said: "We have only been reassured for three days, and we have hardly got off our Christmas drunk yet—if any of us were so unfortunate as to get drunk." The senate and the galleries gasped in astonishment, says the Washington correspondent of the New York World. Afterward Senator Tillman said the remark was a "mere pleasantry."

PLAN TO CHECK INSANITY.

Londoners Alarmed by Science Calls For International Conference.

Apropos of the reported discovery by Dr. Arthur Macdonald of Washington of the cause of the increase in insanity, which has been called to London, an article by W. J. Corbet, which appears in the January issue of the Westminster Review, comes out:

"From year to year, from decade to decade, from generation to generation," says Mr. Corbet, "in spite of every effort made to stop the ravages of the disease, the insane continue to increase in great numbers. The laevens spreads annually, with cumulative force apparently, under the influence of the natural law of reproduction. The question has to be faced, how long will it take before the whole mass is leavened?"

The lunacy returns show an appalling increase during the last generation and a half. The number of registered lunatics in the United Kingdom in 1859 was 47,992; in 1902 the number had increased to 148,631, of these 119,713 being in England alone, where the yearly increase works out about 2,000 victims.

The official view is that the increase is more apparent than real, that the case is rather one of accumulation—that if there is an increase it is not out of proportion to the increase of population. Mr. Corbet repels this view with indignation and scorn. The present system, he declares, is sadly wanting, and he maintains that the marriage of a person who is or has been insane should be prevented by law. He thinks, moreover, that the question is so important that an international conference of qualified persons should be called to consider it.

NO COON DOGS FOR LIBERIA.

Negroes From Georgia Have to Leave Animals Behind on Sailing.

Great was the sorrow of a party of negroes from Irwin county, Ga., when they had to part from their dogs the other day, says the New York Press. The White Star pier resounded with their wailings. The howls of the dogs added to the outburst.

"How can we get along without dogs in Liberia?" was the plaintive query of one of the men. There were fifty-four persons in the party—thirty-two men, twelve women and ten children—bound for the African land of promise. They had two bloodhounds and two "powerful fine coon dogs." But when the troops aboard the Teutonic the man at the head of the gangplank said "Get out!" to the dogs.

"They're ours," said the leader of the emigrants. He was pained to learn that his ticket didn't include dogs. He was told he must get a government permit before the dogs could be received at an English port. He communicated that fact to his companions, and then the sounds of sorrow arose.

"Them bloodhounds has followed a scent fifty miles," moaned George.

TOLD OF AUTHORS.

Why Frank T. Bullen Broke Into Literature.

[Special Correspondence.] New York, Jan. 12.—The literary beginnings of successful authors are always a subject of interest. Unfortunately not all authors are willing to be perfectly frank. Perhaps they forget. At any rate, one is led to think that most of them were born with pen in hand and their youthful heads full of plots and characters.

Frank T. Bullen, who writes most entertainingly of the sea, is not one of those who were born to letters. At a recent dinner of the London Authors' club Mr. Bullen declared he wrote his first book under the stress of necessity, with no idea of ever writing a second. He was earning $10 a week when he began "The Cruise of the Cachetot," for which he received $500 in a lump. He had never seen so much money at once before, so he concluded to stick to authorship. But even now he is so little of a "literary man" that he insists he has noticed no envy, hatred or uncharitableness in the literary life, and talks of his adopted calling in a manner which would never discourage any youth from taking to literature, which, of course, is very wrong. Most of us think very well of Mr. Bullen's books nevertheless.

Apropos of Richard Le Gallienne's new book, "An Old Country House," which Harper & Bros. have just published, several stories of the author are going the rounds, among them the following, which Mr. Le Gallienne has good humoredly told himself. When he was a young accountant in Liverpool, long before he became famous as a writer of exquisite prose and verse, he wore his hair several inches longer than the other lads among his acquaintance. One day he was summoned to the private office of the firm which engaged his youthful services.

The firm was composed of four men, one of them a Scotchman, and all were seated around a table in dignified state when Le Gallienne appeared, wondering what he was in for.

"Mr. Le Gallienne," said the Scotch member solemnly and with a falling inflection, "the firm has decided that if

HE WAS SUMMONED TO THE PRIVATE OFFICE you haven't the necessary funds to have your hair cut it will advance you the sum of threepence for that purpose."

The young clerk, too indignant to answer, turned in furious silence and left the room. Strange to say, no further reference was made by his employers to the incident, and he has worn his hair long to this day.

When Dr. Henry Van Dyke's "The Story of the Other Wise Man" was translated into Turkish, it was submitted, in the usual course, to the censor. That worthy approved all the book except its title, which he said would not do.

"Why will it not do?" the publisher asked.

"Because it is not true," was the solemn answer.

The publisher was puzzled. "Not true?" he asked. "In what respect is it not true?"

"Because," explained the censor, "there is no wise man but Mohammed." The title was accordingly changed to one which, if translated freely into English, would read, "How the Other Wise Man Got Left Behind." The story is one of the chief favorites of American readers.

Miss Josephine Dodge Daskam made a speech the other day before a meeting of the Filmmakers' Forum in New York which inadvertently furnished more amusement to the public than did to the "filmmakers" for Miss Daskam's sentiment proved to be a comedy making rather than a tragedy ending.

In the midst of an attempt to discuss and earnest Miss Daskam expressed a young girl to her and to her mother.

"Oh I have had a notion of," she said, "but I don't know if I should."

"What was it?" asked the mother.

"I thought I would like to be a writer," she said.

[Original.]

A row of Union soldiers stood in line within the walls enclosing a prison yard.

A Confederate officer approached and, standing some twenty paces from them, thus addressed them:

"Three Confederates taken in what your Yankee general over there (pointing) calls illegitimate warfare are to be shot this evening at sunset. In retaliation I am ordered to shoot three of your number. You will begin to count from right to left, and every fifth man will step four paces to the front."

A shudder passed along the line. All understood that those men who were to step to the front must die.

"Begin, you man on the right there," said the officer.

A young girl emerged from a door leading from the commandant's quarters and came toward the soldiers. She wore an apron and a cap, denoting that she was a nurse. She had made both herself, for in those days there were no uniformed nurses. Lucia Clarke was a northern girl who had gone south to find her brother, Allen Clarke, who was an avowed prisoner of war. Having gained permission to nurse him, she had devoted herself to the sick in the hospital attached to the prison, including Confederates, for in this case the blue and the gray were mingled, till she had won the admiration of all and the love of the Confederate commandant. She came forward with a quick step. She had just heard of the order and knew what was going on.

"One," "Two," "Three," "Four," No. 5 said nothing, but tottered forward.

"Six," "Seven," "Eight," "Nine," No. 10 stepped forward with as steady a tread as if ordered to meet a human enemy.

"Eleven," "Twelve," "Thirteen," "Fourteen."

While the men had been counting Lucia Clarke had glanced ahead and seen that her brother Allen would be the fifteenth man. He had only been discharged from the hospital the day before and now, infirm and with one in five chances of death before him, could scarcely stand.

A feminine voice rang out firm and clear. Lucia, who had wedged herself in between No. 14 and her brother, stepped four paces to the front. Allen, seeing what his sister had done, moved forward to contest the place with her, but, overcome by his infirmities, fell on the ground behind her. Lucia stood rigid while two Confederate attendants carried him away.

As Major Clarence Fitz-Hugh, the commandant, looked at the girl standing there in the rank of death his eye was wet with sympathy.

"Miss Clarke," he said gently, but firmly, "all must appreciate the sacrifice you would make, but it cannot be permitted."

"Then I will die with my brother if I cannot die for him."

"What can you do?"

"I will stand before him when he is shot, and the same bullet will end this fearful struggle for us both."

"Sergeant," said the officer, "march the prisoners back. Separate those who are to be shot from the rest."

"You on the dead line," said the sergeant, "right face!"

The five men and the woman turned to the right.

Miss Jennie Jones Entertains Griggs
Clerks—Freshmen Enjoy Sleighride—Notes.

Granville, O., Jan. 14.—Miss Jennie Jones, the efficient bookkeeper for the H. H. Griggs store in Newark, entertained the clerks of that store and a number of their friends very handsomely at her home on Maple street on Tuesday night. The party came up on the electric car, and the evening was passed in having a good social time. Refreshments were served during the evening and all had a splendid time.

Miss Grace Thornton, a charming young lady of Lancaster, who has been visiting here for some days, returned home on Monday, after having had a most enjoyable visit.

The boys of the Freshman Class of Denison University, entertained the girls of that class very enjoyably on Monday evening with a sleigh ride. The merry party met in King Hall of Shepards College and soon after started out in three large bob sleds for Alexandria. In spite of the cold wind on that evening a lively time was had by all on the way, and a very palatable supper was partaken of at the hotel in Alexandria, after which the jovial college class returned to Granville, having spent a most delightful evening.

Field of Sport.

It now develops that there is considerable feeling in some National League quarters, over what is termed the absolute and unconditional surrender of the National League forces of the demands of Ban Johnson, of the American League, and many threats are heard that the agreement will not be ratified by a unanimous vote, so as to make it binding.

The principal objectors are the owners of the Brooklyn club, and John T. Brush of the New York club. Manager Hazen characterized the results of the peace conference as "disgraceful" on the part of the representatives of the National League.

It is hardly probable however, that a few disgruntled magnates among them being the discredited John T. Brush, can get in the way and stop the progress toward peace, which is receiving the unqualified support of the majority of club owners and players as well as the general public. If Frank Robinson who has lost 17 star players by the American raids, has no kick to register against the peace proposals, it is hard to see where Brush and Hazen come in. It is certain that it would be ruinous and a bad piece of policy to continue a disastrous war over one or two players, the principal contest being Ed Delahanty, who has proven that his written contract is no better than his word, which he breaks without a qualm.

Peace is nearly here, and if such men as Hermann Johnson, Somers, Comiskey, Robinson, Hart, Pulliam and Kililea have their way, and we think they will, no petty sportsman like John T. Brush shall be allowed to shoot at the dove of peace with his little popgun.

RICH WIDOW

Says She Was Victimized Out of $1000 by "Professor" Sherwood, the Palmist.

Bridgeport, Conn., Jan. 14.—Mrs. Adelaide Perry, widow of William Hunt Perry, the multimillionaire, who was one of the principal owners of the Wheeler and Wilson Sewing Machine Company, has been victimized out of $1,000 by "Professor" Sherwood, the "psychic palmist, divinely inspired." Mrs. Perry told the police that during the consultation the professor made her believe she was under a hypnotic spell. "Come to me with $1,000 in gold in a bag suspended from your neck and I will remove it," Mrs. Perry brought the gold and gave it to the Professor. She waited two days for the removal of the spell and then discovered that he had left town.
